Castello Di Roncade

A Journey from ancient Venetian nobility to the production of prestigious wines

Roncade Castle is one of the most interesting examples of Renaissance architecture in northern Italy. It is the only pre-Palladian villa surrounded by medieval walls topped by majestic battlements. It stands in the centre of the town of Roncade, in the Veneto countryside between Treviso and Venice.

The manor was donated in 900 by Otto II to the Counts of Collalto. It was later destroyed by Cangrande della Scala. It was Girolamo Giustinian, a Venetian aristocrat, who rebuilt it in the 16th century, following the path of the previous building. The castle we can still admire today.

Baroni Ciani Bassetti

Our family, of Trentino origins and ancient agricultural traditions, took over the Castle property at the beginning of the 20th century with architectural renovations and the replanting of the vineyards.

In 1930, Baron Tito Ciani Bassetti chose the Castello di Roncade as the place that would host our family and his dream: a winemaking business in an ancient land with a vocation for viticulture since the Roman and Serenissima eras. The winery, led by Vincenzo Ciani Bassetti, now surrounds the Castle, which we have continued to enhance over the years with our commitment to the vineyard and the cellar.

The Vineyards of RoncadeCastle

One hundred and ten hectares of vineyards, with a terroir characterised by a microclimate with low rainfall and a layer of "caranto" a few centimetres deep, allow us to produce quality wines: fragrant white wines and full-bodied red wines that have distinguished themselves by winning important awards in wine guides and competitions.
